

IT'S TIME TO REFORM THE FALSE CLAIMS ACT

Matthew Zandi, senior managing director in the Los Angeles office of Guidepost Solutions and former Orange County deputy district attorney, explains why it is important to reform the False Claims Act given it has proven to be ineffective at preventing fraud and encouraging ethical corporate behavior.

MATTHEW ZANDI

Senior Managing Director

Matthew Zandi has extensive experience in both the public and private sectors with over 40 trials in state, federal, and international courts. He is nationally recognized as one of the leading experts in Qui Tam, fraud, and various state and federal whistleblower statutes, compliance, investigations, litigation, and policy. During his tenure as an Assistant U.S. Attorney, Mr. Zandi oversaw the Affirmative Civil Enforcement Task Force (ACE) where he led investigations and litigations of whistleblower claims and Qui Tam litigations nationwide.