

GOOGLE'S GDPR FINE IS A WARNING FOR TECH COMPANY GCS: DOUBLE CHECK DATA CONSENT POLICIES

Corporate Counsel

Google's recent fine for alleged GDPR violations sends a clear message to all large companies about having a good consent policy in place. According to Senior Managing Director and Head of Guidepost Solutions Cyber Forensics practice, Kenneth Citarella "it's easy for different teams to operate without full knowledge of GDPR."

KENNETH CITARELLA JD, MBA, CFE, CIPP/US

Senior Managing Director, Investigations and Cyber Forensics

Ken Citarella guides the international compliance efforts of the firm in its investigative, security consulting, due diligence and compliance consulting practices, including advising clients on how to create and maintain a privacy compliance program. An attorney and Certified Information Privacy Professional by the International Association of Privacy Professionals, Mr. Citarella was one of the earliest prosecutors in the nation involved in the investigation and prosecution of computer-based crime. The High Technology Crime Investigation Association bestowed its Lifetime Achievement Award on Mr. Citarella in 2011.