

WAYS UNIVERSITIES CAN IMPROVE FOREIGN INFLUENCE COMPLIANCE

Robert F. Roach offers practical steps universities can take to monitor and effectively manage the ongoing compliance risks associated with international research collaborations. The full article is available to Law360 subscribers.

ROBERT ROACH

Senior Advisor

Robert Roach is an internationally recognized expert on matters involving compliance, enterprise risk management, monitoring and internal investigations. As a member of Guidepost Solutions' Risk and Compliance and National Security teams, he is available to develop compliance, risk management and monitoring programs for U.S. domestic and international organizations in a number of complex regulatory areas, including: antitrust, export control and trade sanctions laws, data privacy, equal opportunity laws, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and other international antibribery laws, higher education and research compliance laws, supply chain ethics and international fair labor standards compliance. Prior to joining Guidepost, Mr. Roach served as the Vice President, Chief Global Compliance Officer at New York University, the largest private university in the U.S. where he was responsible for establishing and leading NYU's compliance programs at three degree-granting campuses in New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai and 11 additional global academic sites.