

MANAGING FOREIGN COLLABORATIONS IN UNIVERSITY RESEARCH DURING UNCERTAIN TIMES

A recording of the presentation is available. Please feel free to contact one of the panelists to obtain a copy or if you need additional information.

The federal government continues to focus intensely on national security issues involving foreign funding of research in the US higher education sector. This panel will bring together experts in national security, export controls and trade sanctions, and responding to government inquiries, who will discuss effective strategies for managing risks associated with international research collaborations and evolving government expectations.

Topics will include:

- The Biden Administration's approach to "undesirable" foreign influence in university research
- Practical steps universities can take to effectively manage international research collaborations
- Monitoring techniques to meet ongoing federal expectations and avoid federal agency review
- Pending federal legislation mandating enhanced reporting and review requirements for universities with foreign gifts and contracts
- Managing relationships with the federal government and responding effectively to government inquiries

JULIE MYERS WOOD

Chief Executive Officer

As the Chief Executive Officer of Guidepost Solutions, I focus on helping corporations resolve problems with government agencies, and ensure they are proactively addressing compliance requirements. Prior to joining the private sector, I held leadership positions with the U.S. Departments of Homeland Security, Commerce, Treasury and Justice. This includes serving as the Head of Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Homeland Security's largest investigative component, as well as the Assistant Secretary for Export Enforcement and the Chief of Staff for the Criminal Division at the Department of Justice. Throughout my government and private sector career, I have helped develop, implement and execute compliance programs and crisis management plans and responses across a wide range of industries for numerous companies. I am nationally recognized as a speaker for my expertise on compliance, security, immigration and other law enforcement issues and have testified before Congress.
