OVERVIEW

Brian Fisher has more than 20 years of experience in the commercial, industrial, retail, and residential security, fire, and video fields, with additional experience in the electrical field. He has been responsible for system design, installation, service, engineering, systems start-up, project coordination, project management, and customer training. He has managed a number of major security system conversion projects that migrated from one system to another with little or no "downtime."

Mr. Fisher has also been directly responsible for managing a corporate security and CCTV system for a major Fortune 500 company. Mr. Fisher's current responsibilities include new systems design, new product research and evaluation, existing security assessment, recommendations for security models for specific locations, producing drawings and specifications for specific security system projects, project management, and final project closeout procedures.

Mr. Fisher joined Guidepost Solutions 12 years ago. Previously, he was a project manager with Gap, Inc.
