OVERVIEW

Noel Langan is a research analyst, based in Guidepost's New York office. She handles due diligence assignments, background investigations, asset searches, and private investigations.

Prior to joining Guidepost, Ms. Langan was a Senior Research Associate at international due diligence research company, Blue Heron Research Partners, where she conducted investigative searches. She is experienced in utilizing public databases such as LexisNexis, PACER, Factiva, as well as court databases to investigate companies and individuals and identify risks to clients. She has created dossiers on companies spanning key verticals such as healthcare, financials, energy, and industrials. Ms. Langan also has experience in assisting with the standardization of client deliverables and creating methods to boost productivity to benefit clients.

Ms. Langan worked as a Zero Waste Intern with Earth Matter NY, an environmental nonprofit, where she provided recommendations for improving compliance with sustainability goals.
