OVERVIEW

Susanne Bratter is a member of Guidepost's Workplace Investigations practice where she utilizes her experience as an attorney in employee investigations. She is an accomplished business leader and attorney with experience in the creation, training, and management of high-performance sales teams.

Ms. Bratter has more than 20 years of experience as a practicing attorney. She began her legal career as a litigator representing corporations, banking institutions, and title insurance companies. As a part of that representation, she handled matters regarding employee workplace issues.

After leaving private practice, Ms. Bratter spent over a decade working in the growing eDiscovery industry. She assisted with project management and provided eDiscovery consulting to AMLAW 100 law firms and corporations in multiple verticals. She focused on internal investigations and litigation support internationally and across the United States.

Additionally, Ms. Bratter has overseen the training and review of sales representatives, ensuring compliance with regulatory and company policies and procedures.
